

EURES Malta is searching for

Archaeologist (1 post available)
EURES ID n. 365831

Established in 1995, AIS Environment is a professional environmental consultancy firm providing all environmental services requested by industry related to planning, land use, development and assessment, part of AIS Group of companies.

Job description: the selected candidate's roles would be archaeological monitoring, surveying, investigations and post excavation and research work. The successful candidate is expected to manage assigned cases and compile documents and reports for the cases handled.

Requirements: The selected candidate is expected to have a University degree in Archaeology, with two years' work experience as a minimum. Candidates with a Master's degree in Maltese or Punic Archaeology would be preferred. Applicants should:

- Be smart, highly motivated and can work on his/her initiative;
- have good communication skills and strong technical writing skills in English (C1) - Be well versed in computerised systems and AutoCAD drawing
- Hold a valid driving license

Training provided: the candidate will shadow a Senior Archaeologist, and appropriate coaching and guidance would be given.

Any assistance with accommodation/relocation: the company would assist the chosen candidate with finding local accommodation.

Any other benefits: the candidate will make use of a fully paid up local mobile line and company vehicle.

Salary: Eur 22K to Eur 25K, according to the candidate's level of experience, qualifications and demonstrated track record.

How to Apply If you wish to apply for this position, you need to send you cv + covering letter by email to eures.recruitment.jobspus@gov.mt.and cc to eurespuglia@regione.puglia.it object: "archaeologist Malta" by 18.01.2021(ENGLISH ONLY)

How will the interviews be held: Remotely via Microsoft Teams